

Miles McKie was a co-founder of Cavoure Advisors, which combined with Chartwell Partners in 2014. His previous search career includes leadership roles at Heidrick & Struggles and Russell Reynolds where he led the consumer products practice. Noted for his experience in CEO and president level search work in the consumer products space, increasingly his counsel is sought on the talent needed to grow and transition companies for future success. He has built solid leadership teams within both private companies and public corporations.

Miles splits his time between the Austin and Chicago offices of Chartwell Partners. He is the former chairman of the Lycée Francais de Chicago, is a member of the University Club of Chicago and the Arts Club of Chicago, and the Barton Creek Club in Austin. He holds a BA degree with honors from the University of Leeds and an MBA from Northwestern University.
